The FME CBI Guidelines No. 1/2020

The purpose is to clarify the terminology and presentation of key metrics while promoting increased transparency and consistency

Main changes

- › Changes in technical provisions are to be broken down into items related to underwriting risk, on the one hand, and items that result from other changes, returns on the loss reserve i.e. due to unwinding, impact of interest and exchange rate changes.
 - › Therefore, prior year claims development attributable to exchange rate changes, return on the loss reserve and changes in interest rates are not recorded under the claims incurred for the year, but under technical interest rate and exchange rate changes for technical provisions.
- › Technical interest rate and exchange rate changes for technical provisions are calculated on the basis of economic factors, i.e. the discounting assumptions for the discounted portion, while investment income from underwriting operations is calculated on the portion of the technical provisions that are not discounted.
 - › Investment income from underwriting operations is now only calculated on the non-discounted portion of technical provisions.
- › The notes shall include a summary of the main figures and financial metrics from the income statement and balance sheet along with a 5-year summary of these figures.
 - › The quarterly summary has been changed
- › The Guidelines do not affect comparative figures in the balance sheet, the statement of changes in own funds or the cash flow statement.

Sjóva customers will not pay motor premiums for May

We will not collect motor premiums for May from individuals

SJÓVÁ

Supporting our customers during difficult times

The decision to lower personal auto premiums was made in light of reduced traffic and fewer claims

This measure extends to around

43 thousand individuals

This has attracted attention and been extremely well received by customers

Traffic trends in the greater Reykjavik area

The cumulative average daily traffic in greater Reykjavik has declined by 27% since the restriction on public gatherings and by 13% since the start of the year when compared to the prior year

* heimild: Vegagerðin (www.vegagerdin.is)

Large decline in traffic in the wake of travel restrictions

Traffic on the Ring Road fell by 35% in the month of April

Combined traffic data as measured by 16 traffic counters around the country *

* source: www.vegagerdin.is

Claims trend since restrictions on public gatherings were imposed

28% fewer claims in the period 15 March – 10 May versus the same period in 2019

Cumulative motor insurance claims – individuals
15 March – 10 May 2020 and 2019

Combination of profit/loss before tax

2015 - 2020

Underwriting exposure to the tourism industry

Around 10% of premiums earned in 2019 related to the tourism industry

Percentage of tourism-related premiums in 2019

■ Tourism-related premiums ■ Other premiums

- › The 10% figure comprises companies that operate directly in the travel industry, such as car rentals, bus operators, hotels and airlines
- › As revenue from these customers decreases, so does the Company's exposure to them in form of a reduced likelihood of claims
- › This group of companies is the one hardest hit by the economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.
- › We are working closely with these companies to support them, as we do with all our customers, through these difficult times

Earnings guidance

Guidance withdrawn on 12 March given the uncertainty associated with COVID-19

Still considerable uncertainty about the impact on the Icelandic economy; currently not enough known to issue new guidance

The aim is to issue new guidance when the Company's 6 month results are presented in August

Subordinated bond

It was announced in the latter part of 2018 that the Company aimed to issue subordinated debt

The opinion of the State Internal Revenue Board was requested on the tax treatment of the interest expenses

A ruling has now been issued where the Company's position is accepted that interest on subordinated bonds could be recorded as an expense

Financially strong company with strong underwriting operations and a well-diversified asset portfolio

The Company is well positioned to meet the challenging times ahead

The Company will work closely with its customers over the next several months
